

Dear Ms Derry

“This official launch of NMU’s medical school is an important milestone for this wonderful university itself, for the higher education sector as a whole, for NMU’s immediate contexts and most important, for the health and wellbeing of South Africa’s people. This medical school will inject significant new capacity into our national health system. It will also contribute to the reimagination of health education by ensuring that close attention is paid to the nature of the education and training. Its intentions of producing more socially rounded graduates will help us to inject new levels of diversity and new learnings about the role of medical graduates in helping to produce better health outcomes. My heartiest congratulations to NMU on this launch. May the Medical School flourish from its location in the rich academic environment of NMU and the forges it will be thrown into.”

Sincerely

Ahmed Bawa
